This year marks the twentieth anniversary of our move to Navy Pier. During our inaugural season in what is now our artistic home, we presented seven productions across our two theaters. We have since grown exponentially, adding The Yard at Chicago Shakespeare, building a nationally recognized education program, curating a vibrant WorldStage Series, launching new plays and musicals, and expanding our annual schedule to feature as many as twenty productions.

Highlighting our commitment to new work, new voices, and artists who redesign traditional storytelling paradigms is SIX, an electrifying new pop musical by Toby Marlow and Lucy Moss. Our newest venue, The Yard at Chicago Shakespeare, is the perfect home for this genre-defying work, directed by Moss and Jamie Armitage. What began as a small project for the Edinburgh Festival Fringe between writers and friends Marlow and Moss while in their final year at Cambridge has since taken the West End by storm, garnering five Olivier Award nominations. Through powerhouse pop, SIX gives voice to six often overlooked queens—the wives of King Henry VIII. Aragon, Boleyn, Seymour, Cleves, Howard, and Parr unite to reclaim their places in history through an exuberant celebration of female empowerment.

While SIX plays in The Yard, Shakespeare’s timeless 400-year-old masterpiece Hamlet, staged by Artistic Director Barbara Gaines, plays in the Courtyard Theater. For our younger audiences this summer, we will produce a beloved family musical, The Wizard of Oz, on Navy Pier. At the same time, our abridged production of The Comedy of Errors will tour to neighborhood parks across the city, free for all, in our eighth year of Chicago Shakespeare in the Parks.

We’re thrilled to have you here today to celebrate the North American Premiere of SIX. Whether you’re a regular visitor or it is your first time with us, we hope we’ll see you again soon!
Under the leadership of Artistic Director Barbara Gaines and Executive Director Criss Henderson, Chicago Shakespeare has redefined what a great American Shakespeare theater can be—a company that defies theatrical category. This Regional Tony Award-winning theater’s year-round season features as many as twenty productions and 650 performances—including plays, musicals, world premieres, family programming, and presentations from around the globe. The work is enjoyed by 225,000 audience members annually, with one in four under the age of eighteen. Chicago Shakespeare is the city’s leading presenter of international work, and in touring its own productions across five continents has garnered multiple accolades, including the prestigious Laurence Olivier Award. Emblematic of its role as a global theater, the company spearheaded Shakespeare 400 Chicago, celebrating Shakespeare’s legacy in a citywide, yearlong international arts and culture festival, which engaged more than one million people. The Theater’s nationally acclaimed arts in literacy programs support the work of English and drama teachers, and bring Shakespeare to life on stage for tens of thousands of their students each school year. Over the summer, the company tours a professional production of Shakespeare’s work, free for all, to neighborhood parks across the city. In 2017 the Theater unveiled The Yard at Chicago Shakespeare—with its innovative design that has changed the shape of theater architecture. Together with the Jentes Family Courtyard Theater and the Thoma Theater Upstairs, The Yard positions Chicago Shakespeare as the city’s most versatile performing arts center.

The annual free Chicago Shakespeare in the Parks tour provides the perfect opportunity to explore a new neighborhood this summer. From Calumet to Loyola, Ping Tom to Columbus, Chicago Shakespeare is bringing Shakespeare’s boisterous farce, The Comedy of Errors, directed by David H. Bell, to parks across the city of Chicago. This beloved summertime tradition will feature twenty-five performances, from July 18 to August 18, in eighteen of Chicago’s neighborhoods. The Comedy of Errors tells the tale of a young man and his lifelong servant and companion searching the world over for their twins, lost in infancy. Everywhere they go, strangers insist that they’re old friends. Mistaken identities abound, until chaos at last gives way to clarity in this comedy filled with equal measure of mayhem, madness, and heart. For tour locations and dates, visit www.chicagoshakes.com/parks.

In 2000 Chicago Shakespeare launched its WorldStage Series, a program dedicated to fostering global artistic dialogue and bringing boundary-pushing international work to Chicago. The Theater has since welcomed more than 1,000 artists from twenty-three countries. Next fall, South Africa’s Isango Ensemble brings A Man of Good Hope. Vividly told through music and dance steeped in African traditions, the play illuminates a young Somalian refugee’s unfailing hope throughout his odyssey across a continent. Makuyeika Theatre Collective presents Andares, which chronicles the lives of indigenous youth in México—and the realities of merging modern life with tradition—devised from personal anecdotes, ancestral myths, and traditional art forms. And in spring, the world renowned Royal Shakespeare Company returns to Chicago for the first time in 25 years with a signature Shakespeare production.

From rain to blood to mud to rapid quick-changes, Dresser Jess Kenyon deals with it all backstage, ensuring that actors are cleaned up and in all the right costume pieces for their next entrance. To honor Jess’s work on CST’s wardrobe team, she was presented with the seventeenth annual Hurckes Award. Created by Dick Hurckes, a founding member of the Theater’s Board, and his late wife Lou, the Hurckes Award supports the work and ongoing professional development of the artisans and technicians who create the worlds onstage, yet rarely receive this type of public recognition. Director of Production Chris Plevin explains: “Jess brings an almost incomprehensible wizardry to her work. Her technical skillset in her craft allows our productions to unfold seamlessly, with actors moving from scene to scene with seemingly limitless flexibility—and the audience oblivious to the miracles she is working behind the scenes.”

Tell us about the story of SIX. What should we expect?

Lucy Moss: SIX is told by the wives of Henry VIII—but as a girl group performing a pop concert for an audience. They’re sick and tired of everyone arguing over who’s the most important wife, and the Queens decide to hold a competition between them: whoever had the worst time in her marriage to Henry VIII will be crowned the leading lady of the girl group! The pop concert consists of each Queen singing a solo in order to stake a claim for the spotlight—but, without wanting to give too much away, not everything goes according to plan. . . .

Were there any challenges in adapting these historic women’s stories into contemporary pop music?

Toby Marlow: When we started writing the songs, it was tricky to find a balance between trying to make them sound like actual pop songs while also achieving the same level of storytelling and humor as our favorite musical theater songs. Given that chart pop songs are usually fairly similar in their structures, we wanted to be sure to avoid the score sounding too repetitive. However, we soon found that the repetitive nature of pop music often proved really useful in our storytelling, such as in Katherine Howard’s song, ‘All You Wanna Do,’ in which we gradually subvert the meaning of the chorus throughout the song. At the start, it’s flirtatious and cheeky but, by the end, the chorus becomes a lament about her repeated abuse at the hands of the men in her life. With pop music there are so many tropes and expectations, and so it was really fun during the writing process to play around with those.

How did you make them into six unique characters?

Lucy: We looked into their biographies, watched documentaries, and picked out the bits of their lives that would resonate for audiences today. One of our major resources was Antonia Fraser’s The Wives of Henry VIII. Fraser focuses on the full life of each woman, not just their stories leading up to—and, for three of them, subsequent to—their marriage to the king. Her book was instrumental in helping us separate each Queen’s identity from Henry—especially for his last wife, Catherine Parr, who had an interesting life, of which her marriage to Henry was only a very small part. Fraser also shares loads of small details that found their way into SIX. For example, we loved one of Anne Boleyn’s mottos: ‘Let them grumble; that is how it’s going to be.’ It felt like the Renaissance version of saying ‘Sorry, not sorry,’ so we snuck that version of the original motto into the hook of her song. We also enjoyed the descriptions of Anna of Cleves as a divorcée developing a penchant for drinking, hunting, and partying. Those details had a huge influence on how we wrote her song.

What inspired you to write a musical that tells women’s stories?

Lucy: Toby and I have loads of female friends who are incredible performers. But they don’t often have opportunities to show how funny or brilliant they are because many musicals don’t have complex, comedic parts for women. In our first writing session, we wrote a ‘manifesto’—our SIX Six-Point Plan—of what we were setting out to do. One component was about writing great parts for women. Another was to highlight the parallels we saw between the Queens’ experiences with those of women today.

It felt like the Renaissance version of saying ‘Sorry, not sorry’

Toby: Each Queen as we imagined her has a few parallels in the modern-day pop world, and each song is influenced by a number of contemporary singers. Aragon is the Beyoncé of the group. And then there’s Anne Boleyn: traditionally she’s taken very seriously, so we wanted to flip that on its head and make her fun and carefree—like Lily Allen or Avril Lavigne. Jane Seymour is inspired by Adele and Sia. Anna of Cleves’ song is this Rihanna/Nicki Minaj parody. Katherine Howard is inspired by Ariana Grande and Britney Spears—kind of ‘bubblegum pop.’ And we’ll subvert that by . . . well, you’ll see. And then Catherine Parr is like Alicia Keys, the soulful one who brings everyone together at the end.

How does SIX bridge these sixteenth-century queens and contemporary pop music?

Toby: By giving each Queen their own song, we were able to highlight their unique experiences and perspectives. It was important to us that each Queen had a distinct voice and style, which we achieved by giving each Queen a different pop star as inspiration. Aragon is the Beyoncé of the group, while Anne Boleyn is inspired by Lily Allen or Avril Lavigne. Jane Seymour is influenced by Adele and Sia, while Anna of Cleves’ song is a Rihanna/Nicki Minaj parody. Katherine Howard is inspired by Ariana Grande and Britney Spears—kind of ‘bubblegum pop.’ And we’ll subvert that by . . . well, you’ll see. And then Catherine Parr is like Alicia Keys, the soulful one who brings everyone together at the end.
Some audience members might respond to the Beyoncé references while others will relate to Catherine of Aragon or Anne Boleyn as historical figures. There’s a little something for everybody.

Lucy: You can see these parallels in SIX’s design, as well. Our costume designer, Gabriella Slade, was inspired by the pop stars we used as the basis for each Queen. So there’s a Renaissance corset paired with the signature Ariana Grande miniskirt, and you’ll see the classic Tudor sleeves along with an ornate Beyoncé-style headpiece—it’s a mash-up between a contemporary pop and Tudor silhouette. That design carries over to the all-female band, the Ladies in Waiting, too.

Tell us about your collaboration and how this play came to be.

Toby: Lucy and I were at Cambridge together. We ended up working on a lot of the same shows—she directed and I acted. We talked about writing a musical together some day. In 2017 the Cambridge University Musical Theatre Society asked for applications to take an original musical to the Edinburgh Festival Fringe, so I applied. When I got the gig I asked Lucy to write it with me. I said, ‘I have an idea for a pop concert musical with the six wives of Henry VIII. Do you want to write it with me?’

Lucy: And I agreed, even though I had never written anything before!

After the Edinburgh Fringe, you’ve since toured the UK and premiered in London’s West End earlier this year. And now SIX is having its North American Premiere here at Chicago Shakespeare. How will the production continue to develop here in Chicago—and with an American cast, this time?

Lucy: So much of the show is shaped by the individual six Queens performing onstage—and what each brings to her role and to the group dynamic. Even though each Queen had a palette of pop stars who inspired their character, the actual interpretation of them is super malleable. And the cast has already started to own their versions—even taking inspiration from artists who weren’t around when we were first writing SIX. We are really excited to see just how unique these incredible performers’ versions of the Queens end up, and we fully expect that by Opening Night this production will feel a world apart from the one you’d see in London.
